Doctor John Crombie Smith bought field for security of horses along with his late wife. Discovered subsequently that it was Burgess acre, so they applied and became Burgesses. (His wife became the first ever female Burgess).

She became unwell and died 12 years ago. they owned, showed and competed nationally with five Quarterhorses. After his wife died, the business ran down. Recently capital, time and enthusiasm returned and he intendeds to start breeding again.

The last blood mare died last year.

The welfare, security and value of the animals is paramount, and they need to be on site. (there old house was nearer and it had a stable on site, which is not available at present address).

There is no chance the business being profitable for some years, but they now have capitol and income, to allow them to employ a groom.

They hope to take on students again from the colleges, when business established. Educating young people and others interested in the "cowboy horses" would restart.

Without the on site residence, (Proposed new house within this planning application) this cannot happen, and hence we put forward this appeal.

Have you raised any matters which were not before the appointed officer at the time the determination on your application was made?

Yes	No
<input type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

If yes, you should explain in the box below, why you are raising new material, why it was not raised with the appointed officer before your application was determined and why you consider it should now be considered in your review.
