Foreword

It is essential that steps are taken to create a sustainable future for Gaelic in Scotland. One of the key features of the 2005 Act is the provision enabling Bòrd na Gàidhlig (the Scottish Government's principal Gaelic development body) to require public bodies to prepare Gaelic Language Plans.

This is Scottish Borders Council's first Gaelic Plan and sets out the aims for the next 5 years, from 2021 to 2026. The plan will also support implementation of the Scottish Government's National Outcome 'We take pride in a strong, fair and inclusive national identity'. Our aim is to comply with the language by encouraging the use of the Gaelic language and promoting opportunities for our communities to communicate in Gaelic.

Our commitments within the Plan set out what we will do to raise the status of Gaelic in a proportionate way whilst meeting our commitment to the aspirations and objectives included in the National Gaelic Plan. Scottish Borders Council is committed to demonstrating equal respect for Gaelic and English regarding any bilingual services and resources.

Scottish Borders Council wants to make a contribution to supporting the Gaelic language, however the Scottish Borders is an extensive rural region within which is situated a range of small towns. Its population is 110,514 (2011 census). The Scottish Borders does not have a tradition in Gaelic speaking.

Councillor Shona Haslam

Netta Meadows
Chief Executive

Summary

The Gaelic Language (Scotland) Act 2005 was passed by the Scottish Parliament with a view to securing the status of the Gaelic language as an official language of Scotland commanding equal respect to the English language.

One of the key features of the 2005 Act is the provision enabling Bòrd na Gàidhlig to require a public authority to prepare a Gaelic Language Plan. This provision was designed to ensure that the public sector in Scotland plays its part in creating a sustainable future for Gaelic by raising the status and profile of the language and creating practical opportunities for its use

Scottish Borders Council recognises that Gaelic is an integral part of Scottish heritage and the Council is committed to the objectives set out in the National Gaelic Language Plan. We will work toward putting in place the necessary structures and initiatives to ensure that Gaelic has a sustainable future in Scotland.

In partnership with colleagues at Ainmean Àite na h-Alba, Bòrd na Gàidhlig has produced a map of Gaelic place-names from across Scotland, highlighting the widespread influence of the language. This is shown at Appendix A.

Structure of the Gaelic Plan

Scottish Borders Council supports the aim of the National Gaelic Language Plan 2018-23 that “Gaelic is used more often, by more people and in a wider range of situations.”

We are committed to achieving this aim by focussing our work, on these three headings:-

- Increasing the use of Gaelic within our organisation and encouraging more people to use Gaelic, more often when they interact with us
- Increasing the opportunity for people to learn Gaelic as part of our day-to-day operations
- Promoting a positive image of Gaelic whenever we can as part of our day-to-day operations as an organisation

The plan is set out as follows:

Introduction

This section provides the background and context to the Council’s Gaelic Plan under the 2005 Act and provides some background to the history of Gaelic in the Scottish Borders.

Core Commitments

This part sets out how the Council will use, and facilitate the use of, Gaelic in relation the services we provide as a Council. This will also include areas such as corporate identity, signage, communication with the public and the use of Gaelic on our website.

Policy Implications for Gaelic: implementing the National Gaelic Language Plan

This segment sets out how Scottish Borders Council will implement the National Gaelic Language Plan. It also shows how we intend to promote the use of Gaelic in the planning and delivery of our services, as appropriate.

Implementation and Monitoring

This element sets out how the implementation of our Gaelic Language Plan will be delivered, and how implementation and outcomes will be monitored.

1. Introduction

Setting the Context for Developing Gaelic Language Plans

The Gaelic Language (Scotland) Act 2005 and the issuing of a notice:

The Gaelic Language (Scotland) Act 2005 was passed by the Scottish Parliament with a view to securing the status of the Gaelic language as an official language of Scotland commanding equal respect to the English language.

This document is Scottish Borders Councils' Gaelic Language Plan prepared within the framework of the Gaelic Language (Scotland) Act 2005. It sets out how we will use Gaelic in the operation of our functions, how we will enable the use of Gaelic when communicating with the public and key partners, and how we will promote and develop Gaelic.

Scottish Borders Council's Gaelic Language Plan has been prepared in accordance with statutory criteria set out in the 2005 Act and having regard to the National Gaelic Language Plan and the Guidance on the Development of Gaelic Language Plans.

Consultation on a draft Gaelic Plan

The 2005 Act requires public bodies to bring the preparation of its Gaelic Language Plan to the attention of all interested parties. Scottish Borders Council consulted on the draft of its Gaelic Language Plan from 12th April to 23rd May 2021 and has taken into account representations made to it during the consultation process.

Approval of Scottish Borders Council Gaelic Language Plan

Scottish Borders Council's Gaelic Plan was approved by Bòrd na Gàidhlig on (date to be confirmed).

2. Scottish Borders

Gaelic is one of the Celtic group of languages and one of the oldest written languages in Europe, thought to have come to Scotland from Ireland around 500 AD, but may have arrived before then, when it would have been part of a number of different languages spoken in Scotland.

In the late 18th century, it was heavily suppressed during the infamous Highland Clearances following the turbulent Jacobite uprisings. Although speakers of the language were persecuted over the centuries

Since the second half of the twentieth century, there has been a sustained effort to support and revitalise the Gaelic language, in which the advances made in Gaelic education at all levels, and the establishing of Gaelic radio and television stations have been important milestones, along with the Gaelic Language (Scotland) Act of 2005. Major 20th century poets, such as Sorely MacLean and Iain Crichton Smith, writing in Gaelic and English, and contemporary groups such as Runrig and Capercaillie have increased awareness and appreciation of the language internationally, and the Arts in general are a particularly vibrant area in Gaelic culture today, drawing on a rich seam of poetry and music in Gaelic tradition.

Gaelic today is spoken in all walks of life, there are employment opportunities for young people within the language, and it is attracting new speakers from many different language communities, Gaelic is still spoken today by around 60,000 Scots.

There are people in the Scottish Borders who speak Gaelic. Mostly these are people who have come to settle in Scottish Borders. A number of these Gaelic speakers are long-time residents of the Scottish Borders having come initially for work in the Textile Industry (connections with Harris Tweed) and in local hotels.

The total number of people recorded as being able to speak and/or read and/or write and/or understand Gaelic in the 2011 Census was 771 (0.7% of the Scottish Borders population, compared to 1.7% for the whole of Scotland). Of these, the total number of people who could speak Gaelic was 375 (0.34% of the Scottish Borders population compared to 1.1% of the Scottish population).

While the present population of Gaelic-speakers in the Borders is small, there is increasing interest in learning the language, a number of people resident in the Borders are taking advantage of on-line learning opportunities to an advanced level, and there is a wider community within the population of Border who are engaging with the language through its music and song.

3. The Scottish Borders Contribution

Three areas where a significant contribution can be made which relate to each other are:

3.1 Information and Awareness

As an official language of Scotland and as a contribution to a better understanding of Scotland's history and identity, it is important that the population of the Scottish Borders is exposed to and given some awareness and understanding of the Gaelic language.

The main body promoting awareness of Gaelic in the Scottish Borders is the Gaelic singing group who perform across the region at music events, they have also run Gaelic song workshops which have attracted considerable interest. In addition to this, they organise a programme of meetings throughout the year to promote Gaelic language and culture. These events include lectures, musical and poetry recitals and ceilidhs.

Scottish Borders Council has in the past sponsored some Gaelic events organised in the Borders to encourage a wider awareness of the language, and has funded events and classes for Gaelic learners.

BBC Radio nan Gàidheal is a Scottish Gaelic language radio station owned and operated by the BBC. The station was launched in 1985 and broadcasts Gaelic-language programming with the simulcast of BBC Radio Scotland.

3.2 Education

Language and Literacy is a core curricular area within Curriculum for Excellence. Gaelic education should be a consideration for all schools as part of their curriculum planning from 3-18 and Scottish Borders Council Education Services are committed to supporting the development of Gaelic culture through this plan and any subsequent development plans.

3.2.1 Gaelic in an Education Setting

Scottish Borders Council recognises and values and importance of Gaelic language as part of strategic planning and development of language learning and of the rights of our young people to access education in Scotland's indigenous languages.

In terms of education, Gaelic is defined by two distinct approaches to development; Gaelic Medium Education (GME) and Gaelic Learners Education (GLE).

“Gaelic Medium Education is high-quality learning through immersion. Alternative models lead to the dilution of standards and as such are non-compatible with the development of strong and sustained GME.” Education Scotland Lead Inspector for GME, Joan Esson, June 2015

Nationally, GME is defined by Education Scotland as follows:

GME is based on the principle of language immersion. GME provision should encompass the four contexts of the curriculum within Curriculum for Excellence:

- the ethos and life of the school as a community
- curriculum areas and subjects
- interdisciplinary learning
- opportunities for personal achievement

Education Scotland strongly advises that GME is not merely language learning, it is also the delivery of subjects through the medium of Gàidhlig and Gàidhlig at the heart of the life, culture and ethos of the school.

The Education Scotland Act (2016) and Statutory Guidance on Gaelic Education include three key proposals regarding GME:

1. Authorities have a duty to promote and support GME
2. Establishment of a statutory process for authorities to assess parental requests for GME
3. Development of statutory guidance arrangements for the delivery of Gaelic education in schools and by authorities

3.2.2 Gaelic Medium Education in Scottish Borders Council

Scottish Borders Council currently provides GME through a partnership arrangement with City of Edinburgh Council. Partnership arrangements support developing capacity and effective resourcing across the region and high-quality Gaelic Medium learning for children and young people. This provision will be planned and assessed by Scottish Borders Council and local partners with local demand being monitored as part of ongoing future planning. This provision is supported by Scottish Borders Council and available on application by parents. Support and communications for parents wishing their children to access Gaelic Medium Education has been identified as an aim of the Scottish Borders Gaelic Language Plan and is included in the actions listed below.

In 2019/2020 no Scottish Borders learners attended the City of Edinburgh GME provision at Parkside Primary / Bun-sgoil Taobh na Pàirce), or the secondary GME provision at James Gillespie’s High School.

Parents also have access to Gaelic Medium Playgroups in City of Edinburgh through partner providers and at a range of locations across the city. More information is available via Cròileagan Dhùn Èideann’s website: <http://www.gaelicplaygroup.com/>

Scottish Borders Council Lead Officers support the ongoing development of effective partnership working across the South-East Improvement Collaborative (SEIC) and lead support for schools in developing Gaelic learning.

3.2.3 Gaelic Learners Education (GLE)

Gaelic Learners Education (GLE) refers to Gaelic learning as an additional language in an English Medium Education context.

According to the Education Scotland advice and guidance on GLE: “In English medium education, Gaelic language learning is part of children’s and young people’s entitlement to learning a language. Gaelic Learner Education is an overarching term which spans across 3-18 provision.” (Gaelic Education 3-18 in Language Learning in Scotland: A 1+2 Approach)

Gaelic Learner Education (GLE) provides young people with progressive opportunities to learn Gaelic language and experience Gaelic culture as part of the wider offer of languages across Scottish Borders Council schools. GLE is an area which is currently undeveloped in Scottish Borders schools, but is planned through the Gaelic Language Planning process. This will include seeking opportunities to promote the use of the Stòrlann 1+2 Languages website and resources, Go Gaelic (<https://go-gaelic.scot/>). This area is being developed in collaboration with key local and national partners including Bòrd na Gàidhlig, regional local authorities, higher and further education establishments, schools and parents.

A regional Gaelic Education Steering group has been established to support the strategic development of Gaelic language in schools and includes key local authority officers, primary and secondary teachers, parents and local partners. Key local partners include Newbattle Abbey College, which offers professional development and engagement opportunities for schools, parents and learners. Teachers who have experience or an interest in Gaelic learning will be identified and local training opportunities are being developed and offered.

Scottish Borders Council is working with schools in neighbouring areas where GLE is currently being delivered (James Gillespie’s High School, City of Edinburgh) and offering opportunities through digital solutions to open up Gaelic learning to learners across the region.

However, there are no further or higher education courses in Gaelic held in the Scottish Borders and Edinburgh is the main proximate location for accessing more structured and advanced Gaelic education.

3.2.4 Gaelic in a non-education setting

Scottish Borders Council Library services may be able to provide Bookbug bags in Gaelic at each of the following stages:

- Baby (gifted by the health visitor at around 6 weeks)
- Toddler (gifted by the health visitor at around 18 months)

- Explorer (gifted by nurseries at 3)
- Family Bag (gifted through schools in P1)

A limited stock of Gaelic language books is available at Library Headquarters and items are available in children's collections across Scottish Borders libraries. Requests for Gaelic items are infrequent; however, this may be due to a lack of awareness and has been identified as an area for development.

In terms of community learning, the following is currently in place:

- There is a beginners Gaelic App now available and which is free, if people are interested in learning Gaelic
- Duolingo is completely free and another resource for people wishing to learn a language online
- A Gaelic singing group
- Gaelic Education events for adults, children and young people have been held in the Scottish Borders
- Funding for Gaelic education provision which is specific grant supported and can be used for any Gaelic related activity as appropriate.
- Scottish Borders Council offers an interpretation and translation service

3.3 Culture and Arts

There is a strong Gaelic current in Scottish Folk music. Over the past decade the Scottish Borders has developed a strong folk music tradition amongst children, young people and adults and Gaelic music has been an important influence and medium within this.

Many folk music festivals and concerts held in the Scottish Borders have included Gaelic music artists which has increased awareness and interest in the Gaelic language and culture

1. Folk Music is a key way of increasing awareness of Gaelic culture
2. There are Gaelic poets and academics who stay in the Scottish Borders
3. Some of the Arts events in the Scottish Borders have included Highland plays reflecting aspects of Gaelic culture
4. Borders based music artists and film producers are benefiting from Gaelic TV and other media through exposure and contracts
5. The Melrose Book Festival presents an opportunity to raise the awareness of Gaelic books and language
