3. PLACE MAKING UPDATE

Councillor Richards introduced Jess Houghton, Community Place, Planning and Regeneration Officer, to give an update on Place Making. Workshops were taking place for Place Making with the first in Tweeddale on 23 March 2022. The Teviot and Liddesdale Place Making workshop was arranged to take place on 26 April 2022, led by Planning Advice Scotland. The workshop would develop shared understanding of Place Making, how to be involved and participate and identify communities that wanted to be involved. There were still places available in the workshop and attendees were encouraged to sign up to the workshop.

DECISION
NOTED the update.

4. CLIMATE CHANGE/NET ZERO

- 4.1 Councillor Richards introduced Louise Cox, Environment Strategy Coordinator, and Michael Cook, Corporate Policy Advisor, to deliver a presentation on Climate Change and Net Zero which had been requested as an item on the agenda. Scottish Borders Council had declared a climate emergency in September 2022 and had developed a Scottish Borders Climate Change Route Map for action in the Scottish Borders Council area and the organisation. The Scottish Borders Climate Change Route Map (CCRM) set a strategic direction for the Council and its partners and communities to move to a net zero emissions Scottish Borders economy by 2045 in line with the national target set by the Scottish Government. The CCRM was structured around five themes which were Building Resilience, Decarbonised our Transport Use, Lowering our Energy Consumption, Decarbonising our Waste Management, and Nature-based Solutions to Climate Change. The CCRM was approved by Scottish Borders Council on 10 March 2022 and Place Making was identified as being key to take the CCRM forward with partners and communities. The CCRM promoted a citizen's assembly to see how people want to develop priorities and to engage societal effort. There had been guidance from the Scottish Government that any transition had to be just, ensuring that benefits were fairly distributed and the brunt of paying for net zero wouldn't rest on those least able to. The Environment Strategy Coordinator advised that conversations had been developing through Place Making looking at domestic energy efficiency and bulk purchasing. Price rises in energy had been concerning, and furthermore, the role of transport could be assessed as part of the Place Making Process.

- 4.2 Attendees discussed the CCRM and issues related to climate change and net zero, Graham Marshall of a Greener Hawick suggested that there should be an energy plan for the community and that the Greener Hawick organisation were working on hydrogen production. Mr Cook advised that energy 'masterplanning' was in development as part of the Borderlands inclusive growth deal to take a proactive approach to identifying energy need for the region. Local authorities would come under statutory obligation to develop local heating and energy efficiency strategy as part of a wider strategy on demand planning. Mr Cook advised that the Scottish Government were encouraged by district heating however there may be challenges in ensuring it was supported by an appropriate financial plan. Councillor McAteer stated that the Area Partnership should consider how to be practically involved in shaping and delivering an energy plan for the region. With regards to infrastructure for electric charging points for electric vehicles, the Corporate Policy Advisor advised that he had engaged previously in delivering strategic charging points and that half of charging points in the region were delivered by the local authority. Currently, electric vehicle charging points had been free of charge, however this may not be sustainable in the future. A quote received for an electric charging connection in Hawick was rated as £7,000 and the unit price of 25-30p per unit may need to increase closer to 50p.

5. EQUALITIES, DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

Locality Development Coordinator, Ms Jardine, presented the item and summarised the work of Scottish Borders Council that addressed equalities and diversity, advising that it was a significant area of work and there was intention to start a discussion at the Area Partnership on the issue. If there was a better understanding of diversities in the region and at Scottish Borders Council, and the inequalities that exist, this would give a better understanding to look at the services that were being provided and to propose services and projects in the future. Scottish Borders Council could support communities to address diversity and inclusion needs. Mr Kerr noted that there were few younger people involved in the Area Partnership and that involving diverse people had to be just to ensure they had power to enable them to participate and to make a difference. Members discussed the suitability of meeting times for the Area Partnership and community councils potentially acting as barriers to participation, notably that in some instances there were few women as community council members. Access to technology was highlighted as an unintended barrier to participation. The Locality Development Coordinator thanked attendees for feedbacks and advised that multiple approaches may be needed to engage more people.

Recent issues raised included rising energy costs and the 2022 census. Paul Hyland, Engagement Officer for Scotland's Census at the Scottish Government provided information at the Community Assistance Hub including that the 2011 response rate had been one of the highest, that the census form was digital for the first time with paper-based forms available by request. The Low and Slow Project had seen great success and were assessing how to go into different localities. The Build Back a Better Borders Recovery Fund was to be open until the end of May 2020 and had £378.90 remaining. Hawick Community Council members withdrew during discussion leaving members of the panel from the public to consider the applications. The panel considered an application of £1,434.83 from the Town of a Thousand Trails to hold community drop-in sessions. The Assessment Panel agreed to recommend the awarding of £1,434.83 to Town of a Thousand Trails.

- 8.2 Copies of the summary of the Teviot and Liddesdale Community Fund Working Group were circulated that summarised recommendations for the operation of the fund. The Working Group agreed that the Pot A and Pot B funds should continue and that there should be three application categories to access funding for Pot A. Pot A was proposed to include a micro-grant process for applications up to £500, assessed by the assessment panel and a decision made by an SBC Director; a fast-track resilience fund of £1,500 that would be assessed by the assessment panel and approved by Members; and a further fund with no application limit where applications would be assessed by community council panels for recommendation to the Area Partnership. No change was proposed to the Pot B fund. It was proposed that community council with remaining funds could carry over their funding to 2022-23 to add to their share of their funding for that year. Mr Douglas of Upper Teviotdale and Borthwick Water indicated they wished to add their allocation of Pot A funding to Hawick Community Council for 2022-23 as they had done for 2021-22.
